What will learners do (learning tasks/activities/formative assessments) to demonstrate they can meet the lesson can-do?

Students are fascinated by Shahrukh Khan and his fabulous home "Mannat". They search online for news about him and find a photo shoot of his home. They make note of the rooms of the house and his elaborate furnishing and then talk with classmates about this home, comparing it with their own houses in the United States. They decide to design a home where they will live when they earn fame and fortune. They post the plan and description of this house on the class Facebook (or Fakebook/Edmodo) page where classmates view and comment on the plans.

Lesson Plan A

Opening Activity

The teacher tells the class that he/she is selling his/her home. He/She shows the class a digital tour of the home. This may be done using a video clip, a slide-show, or with large visuals. As the teacher narrates the house tour, he/she specifically uses the targeted vocabulary repeatedly and notes important expressions on the board for students to use as reference.

Time: 10
minutes

Learning Episode

The teacher distributes an 8x10 sheet of paper with small visuals of rooms of the house, some furniture items, pictures of typical activities carried out in different rooms of the house. Students "tear" the sheet into individual pictures. The teacher then leads the class in a series of tasks that allows students to internalize the new vocabulary:

Time: 15
minutes

- As the teacher names the rooms and furniture items, the students hold up the corresponding pictures.
- The teacher describes the different rooms and furniture items; students hold up the corresponding pictures.
- Students play picture Bingo with the vocabulary.
- Students work in pairs to create a story about an imaginary home using the pictures as prompts. They tell their story to another pair of students who ask clarifying questions and make comments about the home.

For additional vocabulary practice, teachers present additional thematic vocabulary and implement a variety of games and activities as suggested at the following website: http://iteslj.org/Techniques/Koprowski-RecyclingVocabulary.html
Learning Episode
Teacher plays the video clip, Module 2. Rathore Family- Our Home. Students listen and hold up corresponding vocabulary cards when they hear and/or see the name of the room or the furniture item. Students watch the video a second time and fill in a graphic organizer with information from the video: 1) names of the rooms of the Indian house; 2) furniture items they see or hear; 3) activities/chores carried out in the house.	Time: 10 minutes
Learning Episode
Students create an outline for a slide show or for a video tour of their own home. They include a script for the slide-show or video; they peer edit the work using a rubric or checklist to guide their comments.	Time: 30 minutes
Learning Episode
Using Photo Story, Power Point, Story Bird, or another presentational application, students create a tour of their home that includes photos and commentary. They complete their home tour for homework.	60 minutes
Lesson Plan B
Learning Episode
Students meet with a partner to present the tour of their homes. The partners offer feedback toward improvement. Students spend time using that feedback to alter their presentations.	15 minutes
Learning Episode

Half of the students display their homes around the classroom; the other students circulate, watch the presentations, ask questions, and make comments. Students switch roles to allow the rest of the students to present their homes.	15 minutes
Learning Episode
Students work in pairs to view video clips of homes in India and they scan real estate ads (that the teacher has found) to gather information about the ways people live in different parts of India. They fill in a graphic organizer comparing their home with those in India and then write a short email to an epal in India, they Skype with a friend in India, or blog about the differences and similarities between the homes.	15 minutes
Lesson Plan C
Learning Episode
Performance Assessment: Fascinated by the lifestyles of the rich and famous, students search online for news about celebrities and find photos shoots of their homes. They make note of the rooms of the house and the elaborate furnishing and then talk with classmates about this home, comparing it with their own houses in the United States. They decide to design a home where they will live when they earn fame and fortune. They post the plan and description of this house on the class Facebook (or Fakebook/Edmodo) page where classmates view and comment on the plans.	60 minutes
